

Unique Volunteer programme with Political Parties/Leaders:

The successful debut of Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) in the recent Delhi Legislative Assembly elections can be attributed to its strong presence among the youth and the role played by students/volunteers in door-to-door campaigning.

With political parties gearing up for the General Elections in March-April 2014, the Centre for Legislative Research and Advocacy (CLRA) with the aim of promoting volunteerism in the election campaign culture, calls for young, talented and dynamic students/youth and professionals for internship/volunteering work with prominent and promising leaders across political parties.

This opportunity offers students/youth and professionals a hands-on experience of election campaigns of various political parties. Interns and volunteers are expected to assist leaders in preparing campaign materials, promote the party/campaign agenda on social networking sites, door-to-door campaigning, survey and analysis of voters and voter preferences, outreaching to voters, etc.
